

The Biale Zinfandel Vineyards

Farming Zinfandel is a Biale family tradition that began in the old days of Napa. Today, Aldo Biale's vineyard is one of several historic sites from which Robert Biale Vineyards produces some of the world's finest Zinfandels.

Aldo's Vineyard.

Oak Knoll District. The old vines planted in 1937 on the Biale ranch in Napa that produce our signature wine.

Black Chicken.

Oak Knoll and Napa. Named for the old code name for Aldo's secret Zinfandel, younger vines behind Aldo's home. 1980.

Grande Vineyard.

Napa. Planted in 1920 on Silverado Trail. Named for the father of Dorothy Rossi and the grandfather of Tony Rossi.

Stagecoach Vineyards – The Biale Block.

Napa Valley. The four acre Zinfandel site planted in 1999 at this acclaimed 500 acre ranch above Oakville.

Old Crane Ranch.

St. Helena. Planted in the 1880's by Dr. Crane, a Napa Valley pioneer. Now maintained by the Salvestrin family.

Old Kraft Vineyard.

St. Helena. Planted in the 1890's and rescued and restored by Bill and Margie Hart.

Varozza Vineyard.

St. Helena. Jack Varozza continues a family tradition at this historic site along York Creek. 1959.

Falleri Vineyard.

Calistoga. Sonya Spencer's one acre planted by her grandmother in 1924.

Valsecchi Vineyard.

Carneros. Old vines near the town of Sonoma once farmed by Ron Mick's grandfather John Valsecchi in 1900.

Monte Rosso Vineyard.

Sonoma Valley. Legendary mountain vineyard farmed by the Martini family for three generations. 1885.

The Biale Winery Vineyard.

Oak Knoll District. The estate vineyard surrounding the winery. 1999.

Collins Vineyard.

St. Helena. Bill and Kathy Collins' historic ranch planted on the rocky soil north of town near the Bale Mill in 1923.

Mead Ranch.

Atlas Peak. Poet Jane Mead's historic family mountain vineyard above Napa with a view of the North Bay. 1880.

Moore Vineyard.

Napa Valley. Scenic historic vineyard preserved by Bill Moore near Coombsville in Napa along Hagen Road. 1905.
